BRITISH AND FRENCH LINES ARE FORCED TO FALL BACK FOR A DISTANCE OF NEARLY SEVEN MILES

FRENCH TAKE UP NEW POSITIONS IN EASTERN OUTSKIRTS OF SOISSONS AND BITTER FIGHTING CONTINUES TO RAGE

FRANCO-BRITISH FORCES OCCUPY HEIGHTS TO SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST OF ST. THIERRY AND ARE BRAVELY DEFENDING POSITIONS AGAINST SUPERIOR NUMBERS OF ENEMY.

FRENCH RESERVES NOW POURING IN AND GREAT DRIVE OF THE GERMANS IS EXPECTED TO REACH SPEEDY END

AMERICANS REPULSE TWO HEAVY COUNTER ATTACKS WEST OF MONTDIDIER — ALLIES REGAIN ALL LOST GROUND IN NORTH.

Paris, May 29.—(Associated Press Cable) — The French troops have fallen back to the eastern outskirts of Soissons, where the battle continues with bitterness, the French war office announced this afternoon.

Franco-British troops, the statement adds, have fallen back to the heights south and southwest of Saint Thierry, where they are holding positions between the Vesle river and the Aisne canal.

American troops to the west of Montdidier, the French statement says, have repulsed two German counter attacks against the village of Cantigny.

In the center, continues the war office announcement, fighting is going on with varying successes on the heights on the southern bank of the Vesle river, where the French troops are bravely and admirably defending their positions.

NO LETUP IN GERMAN PRESSURE

THERE HAS BEEN NO LETUP AS YET IN THE GERMAN DRIVE SOUTH OF THE AISNE RIVER AND BOTH THE FRENCH AND BRITISH HAVE BEEN FORCED TO GIVE FURTHER GROUND. CONFIDENCE IS EXPRESSED IN PARIS THAT THE ALLIED RESERVES NOW RAPIDLY COMING UP WILL SHORTLY TURN THE TIDE AND STOP THE ENEMY ADVANCE.

Apparently the Germans already are being held in the center of their advance along the Vesle river in the vicinity of Fismes, where the point of the German wedge has been thrust. The pressure on both allied flanks has been such that both have been compelled to fall back.

On the west the French lines have been withdrawn to the outskirts of Soissons, which town is about 7 miles south of the nearest point of the battle line as it existed before the new German drive was begun on Monday. This considerably broadens to the west the front on which the enemy is advancing. On the east the Franco-British line has been pulled back from Saint Thierry, northwest of Rheims, where it rested yesterday, to the heights south and southwest of that town. This also has the effect of widening out the front of the enemy thrust.

Around Fismes about half way between Soissons and Rheims, and the center of the important allied communications a desperate battle is being fought. Berlin claims the Germans have crossed the Vesle river on either side of Fismes but the French are still in the town and are holding to it stubbornly.

GERMANS TAKE TOWNS AND 15,000 MEN

Heavy fighting continues all along the front from south of Pinon to almost north of Rheims.

Overwhelming numbers enabled the Germans in their first attack to penetrate the allied lines to beyond the Aisne and capture more than a half score of villages and 15,000 prisoners.

EXPECT TO STOP DRIVE IN 48 HOURS

Observers assert that 48 hours more probably will witness the halting of the forces of the German Crown Prince. The French reserves are moving forward swiftly and General Foch has the situation well in hand.

French and British troops have completely restored the situation in Flanders where four German divisions attacked on a six-mile front east of Loere. The Germans failed to gain north of Mont Kemmel and were driven from elements they gained near Dickebusch Lake.

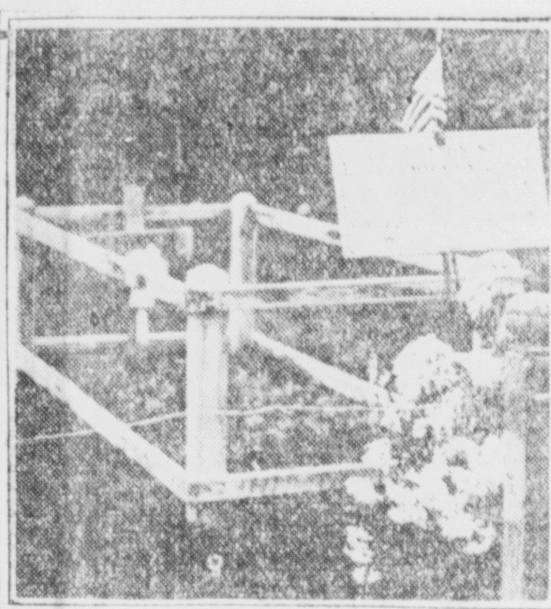

The artillery fire is strong on important sectors on the northern end of the line.

WILL REMEMBER HEROES IN FRANCE

"TAPS"

Memorial Day, the day this nation has consecrated to the honor and memory of its dead sons, the soft echo of "Taps" will sound in every loyal American heart. There will be a tender thought for the brave souls that have died on the field of honor. Throughout the battle-scarred fields of France there are slender crosses and crude graves that mark the resting places of those who answered the country's call. These pictures were taken on the battlefronts of France. One shows the grave of Corporal James B. Gresham, one of the first three Americans to die on the battlefield. The other, blowing "Taps" over the body of an American hero, who gave his life on the battlefields of France.

Dozen French Tanks Aid Brave Yankees in First Great Raid

By Associated Press Dispatch.

American troops in their first assault against the Germans in Picardy scored a brilliant success. Striking the enemy where he had been repulsed the previous day, General Pershing's men advanced their line to a considerable depth on a front of one and one-quarter miles, capturing the town of Cantigny west of Montdidier, and took 200 prisoners. Heavy losses were inflicted on the Germans, while the Americans suffered very small casualties.

The enemy counter attacks were met by the allied gunners with a hurricane of fire. Waves of German infantrymen were stopped dead and thrown back leaving large numbers of dead and wounded on the ground.

The Americans carried out the operation in less than 45 minutes. German counter attacks were broken up by the American artillery, machine gun and rifle fire.

On the other American sectors there has been increased patrol and artillery activity since Monday.

East of Luneville German gas projectors which were used to harass the Americans Sunday and Monday have been destroyed by artillery fire.

PENETRATE LINES DEPTH OF ONE MILE

(By Associated Press Cable)
With the American Army in France, May 29.—The American line now runs 150 to 200 yards east of Cantigny as result of a successful attack today.

The nearest German trench is several hundred yards east of where the Americans dug in. The Germans, it has been found, had many outposts and machine gun emplacements in Cantigny.

The Americans in their attack penetrated the German positions to a depth of nearly a mile. Their artillery completely smothered the Germans. The roar of the American guns could be heard for many miles.

Several fires are burning behind the German lines. Twelve French tanks supported the American infantrymen.

British Machine Comes to Earth After Flying Two Hours Without Man at Helm.

Both Occupants Stone Dead When Airplane Comes to Earth.

(Associated Press Cable.)

London, May 29.—The strange case of an airplane which continued in flight for two hours after its occupants had been killed is related by an officer of the Royal Air Force.

It was a British Bristol battleplane. At 3500 feet while traveling at 80 miles an hour it attacked a German albatross and three other machines. Two of the Germans joined in the action. The Bristol machine eventually sent the enemy machine crashing down. Immediately afterward it made a sweep to the south. It had lost height in maneuvering and was seen to be rocking badly as if out of control.

Shortly before four o'clock it fell to earth 20 miles west of Arras. Both of the occupants were found to be dead from bullet wounds in the back.

There is no doubt that the two air men were shot just after they had downed the Germans. Then for some reason the controls were shifted, the machine gradually losing speed and height.

It was estimated that the two dead men were in the air two hours before the machine fell.

TO HEAR KICKS

Washington, May 29.—Complaints against the order of Director General McAuliffe, increasing freight rates approximately 25 per cent, and raising all passenger fares to three cents a mile, will be heard by the interstate commerce commission despite the action of the body in approving the order without hearing. It was said that suggestions would be welcomed either from individuals and concerns or from state railroad commissions, and it is hoped in this way that a satisfactory adjustment of the new rates can be made. Through the reviewing by the interstate commerce commission of these complaints many adjustments will be made, but it is not expected the general percentages of increase will be changed to any great extent, nor will the additional revenues, estimated at from $800,000,000 to $900,000,000, be lowered to any appreciable extent.

SGT. L. D. SAXTON GIVES EXPERIENCES UNDER SHELL FIRE

"Dick" Saxton Writes Interestingly of Close Calls and Life Among the French Soldiers—Is Army Specialist.

Writing to his mother, Mrs. T. M. Saxton, in this city, Sergeant "Dick" Saxton, who left this city with the 41st Company and is now in the Army Specialist School in France, tells of his first experience under German shell fire and describes some of the countless interesting experiences in the war zone, particularly with reference to the French soldiers.

Army Specialist School,
May 1st, 1918.

Dearest Mother:

This has sure been a beautiful May day and quite an eventful one for me. At noon today I returned to the school after completing my three weeks with the French army at the front.

I doubt very much if I will be able to explain in writing just what my feelings were upon arriving there. After leaving the train at quite a large town some twenty miles from the front, where we reported to the French army headquarters, we were then sent in auto trucks in parties of eight to another point which was divisional headquarters. There we were again split and in my case four of us were carted into a Ford ambulance and our next station was regimental headquarters. From here on I will have to tell you what happened to myself alone, for at this point I left the other fellows and with a French soldier and a bicycle started for the company headquarters to which I had been assigned.

Now it so happened that this particular company was in what is known as the reserve or support to the ones holding the front line trenches, and in this case was about one-half mile back. Well, after leaving with my man and bicycle on the back of which was strapped a part of what little baggage I had everything went well for awhile and I was taking in everything along the road, paying particular attention to numerous shell holes on either side of the road, now and then stepping around one in the road itself. These holes vary in size anywhere from the size of a washtub to that of ten such tubs or more. It was about 5:30 in the evening and raining, or rather a mist, at least the weather conditions were not the best for the little reception I received a few minutes later. I think if the sun had been shining I may have felt more at ease.

Well, the whole thing was this. I heard a hissing sound (there is no describing it, you have to hear it) and then I caught sight of something coming towards me in the air, a second later the hills rung from the sound of the explosions and then I knew that it was a German shell. It struck some 150 yards to the left of the road and was quite a large one, as I learned afterwards. You learn to tell the size by the sound of the discharge. About 30 seconds later the second one came over. I heard it coming and consequently it didn't excite me like the first one. You may well believe I was doing some thinking for myself for I couldn't ask the Frenchman anything. I noticed however that he didn't pay a great deal of attention to them so I figured that perhaps it wasn't anything after all. At least he never knew but what little things like that were every day happenings with me. But, Oh! The third one. I heard it about the same time he did and we both stopped at the same time. He said something I didn't know what, but I made a good guess and into the ditch we went. Fortunately the ditch was quite deep. This one struck about 80 to 90 yards directly above us and to the left of the road, the ground was higher there which made it seem all the nearer. It was well enough we ducked I guess, for the rock and mud rained around us for several seconds.

We jumped out and resumed our way and about five minutes later reached the Captain's P. C. or dugout, where I was to go. Had the same thing happened three weeks later when I was coming out I wouldn't have thought so much of it perhaps. But I simply wish to try and give you a faint idea of what my first impression and feelings of what the so-called front were.

The section, or platoon, as it is called in our army, to which I was assigned was commanded by a Lieutenant who spoke English very well. I stayed with him and his section in this position for six days. We were in a big dugout which was nice and wet and you had to keep your head covered at night to keep the water from dripping on it, and also that the rats couldn't play with your nose. The next morning we began doing the usual things which are to numerous to mention. They were all quite interesting to me and exciting at times.

The whole battalion then went back about two miles to their rest camp which was an old deserted French village. Here I had a room with an old fashioned French bed, electric lights and an orderly. To say nothing of the captain's horse which I could have at my door for the asking. We always had coffee and toast in bed about 7:30 and then got up about 10:00 and lunch at 11:00, and then dinner at 6:00. The French officers surely lives well and so do their men. They should though, for four years of this war game is bad enough with the best.

We spent 10 or 12 days here and then we moved up and my company, with myself included, occupied the real front line for four days, that is I was there four days and there is where I left them when I started home.

Of course there wasn't much we could do while up there in the day time, as it was a pretty wise thing to keep your head down and there isn't much to see out of a trench from six to eight feet deep but the sky. On clear days French and German airplanes, to be seen, and one evening I saw a couple of American planes. At night we would get out and examine the wire, go on patrols, etc.

In fact I had a little of various kinds of experiences both pleasant and otherwise. I sure enjoyed myself extremely. The French officers were simply grand to me and really seem glad to have me with them. We were sent up as candidates, or aspirants as the French call them, and of course lived with the officers. Up until we went into the front line we all ate at the Major's mess. Our lunches and dinners were never less than six courses and often more. I managed to pick up about eight pounds on it, nevertheless I weigh 167 pounds.

Found only four letters when I returned, but today I received six more. Your letter of March 20th and two from Aunt Lyde today.

I have plenty more I could write about but will do it later. I haven't learned yet what they are going to do with us now, but think it is about time we were doing something.

Sure do enjoy your letters and think now that you no longer send them to my company. I will get them quicker. Got a couple of little boxes, one from Frances and one from Miss Marie Hegler (a fruit cake; sure was fine). The ones from home of course I didn't get and never expect to now. Sorry but such is war. Don't send any more at least any that cause you much trouble.

I am not the only one who hasn't received their Christmas boxes. Perhaps some one got them; I hope they did, and enjoyed them.

Sure hope you are all well again, and tell Skipper to stick on the farm and raise something to eat and I'll do the fighting for both of us. We must eat to fight you know. Will write you again real soon and hope that I will be able to tell you more about what I am to do then.

With love to all,

DICK.

FAYETTE GIVES SIX SONS TO WAR

The graves of six of Fayette county's sons who have laid down their lives in the war with Germany, will be strewn with flowers on Memorial Day, when the graves of the veterans of other wars are covered with bloom.

Two of these graves are somewhere in far-off France—where the roar of the American guns, avenging their death, stirs the air and shakes the earth about the sleeping heroes.

The two men who have found resting places overseas are Corporal Earl Thomas and Sergeant Clarence P. Downer, both of M Company.

The four men who have died of disease and have been interred in this county are:

Henry Larkin, died at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, interred at Sugar Grove cemetery.

Loren Kooztz, died at Camp Mills, interred at Milledgeville.

John Burke, died at Ft. Thomas, interred in Sugar Creek cemetery.

Mallie Vance, died at Camp Sherman, interred in the Washington cemetery.

TO THE PUBLIC

Every contributor, and the citizens generally of Fayette County, must necessarily feel highly gratified at the results of the War Chest drive. The magnificent sum subscribed is approaching the $200,000 mark—nearly double the minimum sought. The citizens of the county responded nobly to the call of their country and by their response registered their patriotism and loyalty to the flag. Many throughout the county with meager incomes subscribed through patriotic motives wishing to do their bit and which will entail hardships upon them. The great majority responded loyally upon the basis of 1 to 31, yet we are sorry to say that a few wholly failed to see or do their duty. These few will be ferreted out by the Fayette County War Council and given a fair opportunity to yet get upon the side of their country, and behind the boys who are sacrificing everything for the homes, families, and property of these few individuals, just the same as for the magnificent majority who subscribed to the War Chest last week.

Unfortunately the very few who have failed to properly respond to the War Chest, or partially failed to do so, are found almost wholly among those most able to pay.

This is a situation to be deplored, and one of the things that Bolsheviki Russia. The War Work Council of every voting precinct in the county will do everything in their power to reduce to the minimum the number of the delinquents.

A list of those refusing to subscribe or who fail to do their full duty will be published in due time.

EAT LESS CANDY IS ADMONITION

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Philadelphia, May 24.—The ideal "food administration figure" has been defined in a statement issued by Jay Cooke, 2nd local food administrator. "Eat less candy this summer," says Mr. Cooke in his heart-to-heart talk with women. "The less sugar you eat more slender and graceful you will become. Besides, you are conserving food elements for our Allies and fighting the Hun while you stay at home."

"There are hundreds of thousands of children and young people, of both sexes, in Philadelphia, who can display their patriotism only by acts of self-denial. I suggest to these young people that they display their patriotism by cutting down their allowance of candy, chocolates, undies, bonbons and the various luxuries manufactured almost entirely from sugar."

The new sugar ration, according to Mr. Cooke has been designed solely to give the housewife and canner an opportunity to put up a large quantity of fruits this summer.

"The fact is," said Mr. Cooke, "that the sugar situation is not at all encouraging, and I anticipate that some stringent rules may be promulgated after the canning season is over."

PROMOTION EXERCISES

The promotion exercises which graduated the Eighth Grade pupils under Misses Ella Montgomery and Forest Allen, into the High School, passed off successfully Tuesday night at the High School Auditorium.

Parents and friends filled the hall and found the exercises full of interest.

Eighty-two bright-faced girls and boys were seated on the platform, amid a profusion of flowers. The girls were all in white, wearing midy blouses and scarlet ties.

Each pupil responded to roll call with a quotation, showing marked individuality in their selection.

A feature emphasized by the approval of the audience, was that the music was entirely furnished by the class. Misses Martha Porter and Lela Darger, two young pianists with decided ability, played an opening duet very well and exceedingly pretty choruses by the class and an Octette were splendidly sung.

Superintendent McClain conducted the opening service of scripture reading and prayer and made a forceful little talk urging the children to use their time well this summer, work in their war gardens and remember that idleness means mischief.

Great applause followed the announcement that the schools had made up their desired quota of $10,558.30 in war stamps and that over $1200 the banner amount, had been raised by the two eighth grades, receiving promotion honors.

The presentation of the diplomas was made with an encouraging and helpful little talk of commendation by Fred M. Mark, president of the Board of Education.

The program closed with the singing of "America" and benediction by Rev. G. E. Grove.

Diplomas were presented to the following pupils:

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Tokio, April 16.—Rohand S. Morris, the American ambassador, and a number of prominent Japanese were present yesterday at the laying of the corner stone of a bronze statue which will be erected at Kanagawa, near Tokio, in memory of Townsend Harris, the first American minister to Japan. The ceremonies held on the grounds of the famous Buddhist Hanganji Temple where was signed the first treaty of commerce between Japan and the United States.

The statue will be erected as the result of the efforts of Gombel Nakamura, a merchant of Yokohama, at whose father's house Mr. Harris stayed when he first came to Japan. Mr. Nakamura's idea met with the warm support of Viscount Kentaro Kinko, president of the America's Friends Association and of the American-Japan Association. The site of the statue is under the giant camphor tree where Mr. Harris planted the Stars and Stripes.

Soldiers' Day

Tomorrow we will strew flowers over the graves of our Civil War veterans, but only our thoughts can go out in remembrance to the new-made graves, marked by the little white crosses, "over there."

Never has the present generation known such a Memorial day, and because today many have gone, and are going, out from our homes, the guardians of our safety and of our civilization, to personally know the meaning of the word, war, we doubly honor these veterans of the Grand Army who carried to victory the same flag, even if tattered and torn and stained with crimson, that the "boys in khaki" will once more bear to victory.

We had thought that in the future, when the last taps had sounded for the veterans of '61, that Memorial Day would become only a day of memories, receding into the dim distance as the horrors of war grew more shadowy through the passing years. But it is not to be.

Not only gratitude to the dead, but admiration for the living will be freshly stirred in the rites of tomorrow, tribute to the boys in blue, but also having in remembrance the boys in khaki.

Above all else, tomorrow is the day which belongs to the dead soldier. It is the soldiers' graves that we should shower with flowers.

Little by little the significance of Decoration Day has lessened. Often there are only the few flowers placed by the G. A. R. and its auxiliaries on the soldiers' graves, while a perfect wealth of floral tribute adorns other graves. It is perfectly right that our beloved dead should be remembered, but Memorial Day is sacred to the soldier and it is on his grave that the people should lay their choicest offerings.

Out of the three hundred and sixty-five days of the year there is but one day set apart in honor of the soldiers' memory and it should receive all the tribute possible to give.

The War Chest

The splendid success of the Fayette county war chest drive testifies, indisputably, to the real patriotism and the splendid, good, practical sense and generosity of the people of the county; it is proof, too, of the popularity of the idea and a tribute to the ability and industry of the public spirited men who joined hands, neglected their private business, and conducted the campaign.

The fact that the people of the county filled the war chest to overflowing and then subscribed enough more to almost fill it again, should be, and is a source of great pride and satisfaction.

It points unerringly to a work understandingly and well done, and means a relief from a multiplicity of duties so disturbing to other necessary work.

The campaign was a real plan well developed and pushed, well completed and gives satisfaction and glory enough for all. But above everything else, it leaves us free now to pursue other duties.

The Burdens of Taxation

There need be no hesitancy in taxing the country, President Wilson told Congress in his address Monday noon, and that is true, too, so long as the single but very necessary qualification, suggested by the President, is observed, "if it is taxed justly."

The willingness with which the American public assumes the burdens of taxation, as they are increased and added to, almost every week is one of the fine evidences of sterling patriotism and just appreciation which has enveloped the nation.

Capital has long since realized that it must bear its burden, and a heavy burden of war. Staggering sums have been raised by taxation, larger sums are in process of collection and still other gigantic expenditures have been undertaken which will make every other burden appear small by comparison when we come to arrange for meeting them by taxation. And still there is no doubt about the ability of the people to take on the burdens. In fact the people are eager for more and greater calls to come that they may enlist their dollars in the war.

There need be no hesitancy—the people are ready—only make the burden a just one, proportion each man's financial burden according to his ability.

Under the selective draft taxation method dollars come just as quickly, just as willingly, as the boys.

Poetry For Today

HYMN OF THE CITY

Not in the solitude
Alone may man communicate with Heaven, or see
Only in savage wood
And sunny vale the present deity;
Or only hear his voice
Where the winds whisper, and the waves rejoice.

Even here do I behold
Thy steps, Almighty—here, amid the crowd
Through the great city rolled,
With everlasting murmurs, deep and loud—
Choking the ways that wind
Among the proud piles, the work of human kind.

The golden sunshine comes From the round heaven and on their dwellings lies
And lights their inner homes;
For them thou fillst with air the unbounded skies,
And givest them the stores
Of ocean, and the harvests of its shores.

Thy spirit is around,
Quickening the restless mass that sweeps along;
And this eternal sound—
Voices and footfalls of the numberless throng—
Like the resounding sea,
Or like the rainy tempest, speaks of thee.

And when the hour of rest
Comes like a calm upon the midday breeze,
Hushing its billowy breast—
The quiet of that moment, too, is thine;
It breathes of Him who keeps
The vast and helpless city while it sleeps.

Now, while we are at war, there are probably more idle rumors and gossip flying around than at any other time. WARNING OF LOBBYISTS

Washington, May 20.—Majority Leader Kitchin, speaking in the house on the revenue situation, expressed the belief that one of the "shrewdest and most powerful lobbies" that ever came to congress is back of the movement for tax legislation at this time. He declared the lobby had for its purpose a repeal of the increase of second-class postal matter.

The house was warned by Mr. Kitchin that when the time comes for the revenue bill to go into conference it will be shown that the influential lobby will agree to all provisions, but will insist on a repeal of the postal rate. He said the president and the secretary of the treasury might insist that the revenue bill was an important war measure, but a minor matter such as the postal rate increase should not be allowed to hold up the legislation and in that way the lobby would succeed. He said he was prepared to oppose a repeal of the postal increase.

Mr. Kitchin explained his position as to revenue legislation, saying he wanted to show he acted in good faith recently in trying to induce members of both political parties to postpone action. His efforts to have congress adjourn and take up the legislation in the fall, he said, were due to the attitude of the administration and the treasury which, as late as March 15, notified him the legislation was not desired now.

Congress apparently has found a way to provide the new war revenue legislation insisted upon by President Wilson without abandoning entirely its long cherished plan to get out of Washington for a summer vacation. Leaders of both parties joined in conferences over a program proposed by Representative Garner of Texas, a Democrat of the house ways and means committee, and it was given general approval. The plan contemplates a prompt action on pending appropriation bills, to be followed about June 15 or 20 by a recess of both houses until Aug. 1, while the ways and means committee frames the revenue bill. After passage of the measure by the house, probably about Aug. 10, the house would recess for 30 days to await action in the senate.

This program has not been discussed with the president or Secretary McAdoo, but leaders at the capital are taking it for granted the administration has no legislation of importance to bring forward and that their plans will not be interfered with so long as work on the revenue bill goes ahead.

PASSING IT ALONG

PROGRAM PLANNED FOR MEMORIAL DAY

The opening services will be held at Memorial Hall, at two o'clock in the afternoon of Thursday, with Commander I. N. Rowe presiding. Following is the program announced: Invocation.....Chaplain Wm. Flynn. Logan's General Order No. 1..... Judge Frank M. Allen. Music. Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech..... Miss Esther Leland. Address.....Rev. David M. Barre. Music. Order of March to the cemetery:— FIRST DIVISION The Washington Band. Col. B. H. Millikan Camp Sons of Veterans. Spanish-American War Veterans. Fayette County Cadets. Flower Wagons.

SECOND DIVISION. Veterans of the Civil War. Women's Relief Corps. Ladies Circle of the Grand Army of the Republic. Citizens.

CENOTAPH SERVICES. Grand Army of the Republic Services. Conducted by John M. Bell Post. The parade to the cemetery will start promptly upon completion of the exercises at the Memorial Hall.

WHAT THE DAY MEANS

The services on Thursday morning next may be a great landmark in the history of mankind, for on the ideals of future conduct then accepted, and from then adhered to, will be built the immediate welfare of the American people. It is no dies irae which is to be kept on the 30th of May next. It is no gathering of despondent citizens that the President asks for. But neither is it the coming together, in a holiday spirit, with the idea that the significance of the morning service can be turned aside, as the threshold of the church is passed, for an afternoon of mere distraction and amusement. What the day will mean to posterity is what it means to the worshiper on Thursday next. It is no good putting on the whole armor of God, or any portion of it, just before the service, and taking it off directly afterwards. The armor of God ceases to be armor to the whitest warrior, the very second it is laid aside, just as prayer ceases to be real, fervent and to be effective the very moment it becomes spasmodic. And it is just the same with fasting. No man can profitably curb his thoughts, his tongue, or his appetite for an hour, and then give rein and license to them for the remainder of the day. True fasting is no asceticism. It is no refraining from ordinary necessities of existence for a day or a week. It must be as instant as prayer itself, because it is an inseparable accomplishment of prayer. For if prayer is the desire of man, willing up in thought, fasting is the expression of that desire as seen in his daily life.—Christian Science Monitor.

LUXURIES WILL BE GIVEN BLOW

Washington, May 20.—Congress will strike a terrible blow at luxuries and accessories under the new "tax bill. Doubled, and in some cases trebled, the present tax will be placed on automobiles, jewelry, sporting goods, musical instruments, etc. Heavy tax drains will be made on incomes ranging from $5,000 to $500,000, while those over $500,000, now taxed up to 60 per cent, will be further hit.

Auto excise taxes will be increased from 3 per cent to at least 6 per cent of the sale price, leaders declared, and in the case of pleasure cars, to 10 per cent.

Taxes on jewelry will be boosted from the present rate of 3 per cent to 10 or 20 per cent; sporting goods will go from 3 to 10 per cent; perfumes, cosmetics, etc., from 2 to 8 per cent; patent medicines from 2 to 6 per cent and musical instruments from 3 to 7 per cent, according to present plans.

Incomes and excess profits will constitute the greatest problem before the committee. Taxes on incomes over $1,000,000 are now 65 per cent and upon war profits over 33 per cent, there is a tax of 62 per cent.

Owing to other huge taxes laid by men of great wealth the present tax substantially drains their incomes, and for that reason, leaders declared, the heaviest new burdens will fall on incomes between $5,000 and $500,000. These will be taxed from 7 to 20 per cent.

Public hearings on the bill will be started by the house ways and means committee early in June.

GREATER OUTPUT OF COAL WANTED

Philadelphia, May 20.—Bituminous coal men from all parts of the country attending the first annual convention of the National Coal association here, were told that the government will spend $1,000,000,000 to expand railroad facilities and that sooner or later the producing of sufficient fuel will be squarely up to the operators. This declaration was made to the convention by E. N. Hurley, chairman of the United States shipping board. Mr. Hurley said there must be more efficiency in and about the mines to increase production and that there must be new business methods, new co-operation between employer and employee and creation of schools for training new superintendents, foremen and workers to meet military drafts on labor.

MAN IS ALMOST ROASTED BY A CHARGED WIRE

Horrible Burns Suffered by Albert (Bay) Haws, Who Grasps 6600 Volt Wires While Moving a House—May Lose Hand or Arm.

How Albert (Bay) Haws, aged about 40 years, escaped instant death when he grasped a pair of high tension wires carrying 6600 volts while assisting John Culberson in moving a house on Grove avenue and John street, Tuesday evening, has mystified electricians in this city.

However, as a result of his harrowing experience, Haws is now in the Fayette hospital suffering of the most shocking burns, and is expected to recover, although he has long weeks of suffering ahead if he survives the great mass of burns upon his arms, face and body.

Haws was assisting John Culberson in moving a house, and was on top of the house raising cables and wires—always a very dangerous undertaking and one against which he had been warned. He is said to have picked up one of the high voltage wires and then reached over and grasped the other. In doing this his abdomen came in contact with the first wire and the instant his hands touched the second wire there was a hiss of blue flame and a shock from the man's burning flesh and clothing, while the current, passing through his body, set fire to the roof of the house.

The wires picked up were the direct wires to the Bloomingburg circuit, and carried 6600 volts. A few seconds after he had come in contact with the charged wires, a fuse was blown out of the board at the plant of the Washington Gas and Electric Company, and the man's body was released from the wires, falling limply to the roof of the building.

Fireman White was passing the house at the time and realizing what had happened, seized a ladder and soon was at the side of the injured man. With the aid of others he speedily removed the man to the ground and the Kieffer Ambulance was summoned, hurrying him to the Fayette Hospital.

Haws had much the resemblance of a man that had been roasted alive. Both hands were burned so badly that the skin in great sections was flapping about the backs of his hands and his fingers, much resembling hands grasping a bunch of potato skins. About his right arm was burned a ring, which had eaten deep into the muscles of his forearm.

The palms of his hands had been burned to the bone. Across his right side and abdomen were burns of the most shocking nature, and evidently

WAR CHEST FUND IS STILL GROWING IN ALL DISTRICTS

Work of Rounding Up "Slackers" Under Way and Is Attracting Considerable Attention in the Various Districts.

The Fayette County War Chest Fund is still growing slowly but surely in virtually every district in the county, and the grand total is increasing accordingly, and may eventually reach somewhere between $150,000 and $190,000.

As figures become available the indications are that fully 10 percent of the total amount was paid in cash instead of by monthly payments. Some paid their entire subscription, others one-half of it, and many the first month's allotment.

As the few who were not visited are making their subscriptions, and some workers are just finishing up their part in the drive, the figures are mounting steadily.

The Main Committee is now engaged in the "mopping up" work, or the unpleasant duty of visiting persons who did not give in accordance with their income, or who refused to give at all. So far only one man of the latter kind has been found who, after being visited, has declined to do his part in helping fill the war chest. The Main Committee has voted unanimously to publish a list of those failing to do their duty.

This is a very unpleasant task for the Main Committee but they feel that duty to mankind makes it necessary.

One day this week a colored man of the city, who had been missed by the workers, walked into War Chest Headquarters, and there asked to subscribe. He offered an amount that was considerably in excess of the ratio of "1 to 31" and when this was ascertained, he was asked to abide by the ratio, which he consented to do.

PASTOR IS BITTER IN DENUNCIATION

By Associated Press Dispatch. Springfield, O., May 20.—"If you must depend upon the sharp hammer and tongs methods of an outsider in public meetings to win your Sunday School boys and girls to Christ, there is something wrong with you or your teachers or your Sunday School ideas."

This denunciation of revivals and sensational methods of evangelism was the climax of an address at the Ohio Sunday school convention here today by Rev. Irving Maurer, of Columbus, pastor of the First Congregational Church, whose pulpit Dr. Washington Cladden held for many years. Dr. Maurer made a plea for individual friendship with boys and girls.

"It is easy," he said, "to choose the blaring, noisy, quick methods to the quiet personal slower methods, but in the end the church and the minister pay the price of their mistake. The great necessity is a love of folks rather than of the institution, a capacity for making friends, a knowledge of the realness of Jesus and a power to picture him in terms of actual life."

"Demands like these test our character. Can we measure up to the challenge?" he asked.

MORE MEN NEEDED IN SIGNAL SERVICE

Oxford, Ohio, May 17, 1918.—The Government is anxious to get more men of draft age who are prepared for Signal Service. Miami University is offering a course in such work in connection with its Physics Department beginning on the tenth of June and lasting for six weeks. This is an opportunity for any one who is of draft age or who will be twenty-one years of age before the end of this calendar year to prepare for this kind of service.

Any such student should be able by the end of this time to send and receive ten words per minute and know the fundamental principles of Wireless Telegraphy. He will then receive a record of his work which will entitle him to proper assignment in the service. Those who intend to take this course should be on hand by the tenth of June prepared to do intensive work for six weeks.

LET HIM LIVE

As long as flowers their perfume give, So long I'd let the Kaiser live— Live and live for a million years. With nothing to drink but Belgian tears, With nothing to quench his awful thirst But the salted brine of a Scotchman's curse.

I would let him live on a dinner each day, Served from silver on a golden tray Served with things both dainty and sweet— Served with everything but things to eat.

And I'd make him a bed of silken sheen, With costly linens to lie between, With covers of down and fillets of lace, And downy pillows piled in place; Yet when to its comfort he would yield,

It should stink with rot of the battle-field, And blood and bones and brains of men Should cover him, smother him—and then

His pillows should cling with the rotten cloy, Cloy from the grave of a soldier boy, And while God's stars their vigils keep,

And while the waves the white sands sweep, He should never, never, never sleep.

And through all the days, through all the years, There should be an anthem in his ears, Ringing and singing, and never done, From the edge of light to the set of sun, Moaning and moaning and moaning wild— A ravaged French girl's bastard child!

And I would build him a castle by the sea, As lovely a castle as ever could be; Then I'd show him a ship from over the sea,

As fine a ship as ever could be, Laden with water, cold and sweet, Laden with everything good to eat;

Yet scarce does she touch the silvered sands, Scarce may he reach his eager hands, Than a hot and hellish molten shell Should change his heaven into hell.

And though he'd watch on the wave-swept shore, Our Lusitania would rise no more! In "No Man's Land," where the Irish fell,

I'd start the Kaiser a private hell; I'd jab him, stab him, give him gas; In every wound I'd pour ground glass; I'd march him out where the brave boys died—

Out past the lads they crucified, In the fearful gloom of his living tomb.

There is one thing I'd do before I was through; I'd make him sing in a stirring manner. The wonderful words of "The Star Spangled Banner."

STILL KICKING

Washington, May 20.—Scores of protests, reached the railroad administration headquarters against small wage increases granted by Director General McAdoo's recent order. Word came from Alexandria, Va., that between 300 and 400 shop employees of the Southern railway had quit work for the day to emphasize their dissatisfaction over the new scale.

Notice of the demonstration at Alexandria was greeted at the railroad administration with the comment that all protests and suggestions for modification of the wage order should be presented formally to the director general for consideration by the board of railroad wages and working conditions which will meet here within a week to take up just such questions.

Reports came that other union organizations, particularly machinists, were planning walkouts, but these were not credited by labor directors of the railroad administration.

UNITED STATES NOW IS THE SILK MAKING CENTER OF WORLD

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, May 20.—The United States has become the silk manufacturing center of the world as a result of the war, which has stimulated the manufacture of silk here and in the Far East at the expense of Europe.

A study of the silk industry, the first official inquiry of the kind, has just been completed by the Tariff Commission.

Japan continues to lead the world in the production of silk, while the United States, first among the nations in its manufacture, does not produce a single pound of the material. France continues the chief European manufacturer of silk and the principal source of American imports, Japan ranking second.

The annual requirements of the American silk industry are 20,000 tons of silk and silk waste, 10,000 tons of cotton and other yarns, and 1,000 tons metallic tin for weighting. Most striking of all the developments due to the war has been the expansion of the spun-silk industry. The government is requiring vast amounts of coarse silk cloth, made from silk noil, for making powder bags for the big guns.

Many finer varieties of silk manufactures are not made in this country or else are manufactured in very small quantities. Switzerland supplies practically all of the silk bolting cloth needed by the flour millers of the world. Hatter's plush from which is made men's silk hats, comes from France. Silk lace, silk netting, silk embroideries, veils and veilings, ribbons and handkerchief materials largely are imported. In all other branches of the industry, even fine wearing apparel and velvets, the imports are relatively small compared to the total consumption.

Habutae, of which silk handkerchiefs are made, a soft smooth plain-woven fabric of pure silk, is the largest single item of silk brought from abroad. It has been a Japanese specialty for more than 1,000 years.

Artificial horse hair is made of silk in coarse single filaments. Artificial silk is made in fine filaments, which must be combined before use.

Some silk filament is so fine that it measures 3,000,000 yards, or about 1-700 miles, to the pound.

BONDS ARE SEIZED FROM THE GERMANS

San Juan, Porto Rico, May 4.—Approximately $100,000 worth of Panama Canal and Porto Rico bonds deposited with the treasurer of Porto Rico by six German insurance companies formerly doing business in Porto Rico have been seized by the government and placed to the credit of the Alien Property Custodian. The bonds were required to guarantee the payment of risks to Porto Rico policy holders.

Until recently the bulk of the insurance business of the island was written by German agents in German companies.

ALLIES GIVE SOME GROUND

London, May 20.—The great German military machine is in full motion along the 20-mile front in the Aisne river sector, between Vailly and Berry-au-Bac, and greatly outnumbered, the British and French everywhere are giving ground.

Reports from the battlefields, both official and unofficial, show that the allies have again suffered a setback, whereby they have lost all the ground in the Chemin des Dames region so gallantly won by the French in the great struggle from April to October, 1917.

According to the German official communications, numerous towns and villages in the fighting zone have been taken by the enemy and 15,000 allied troops already have been made prisoner.

The German statement in this regard says: "Pinon, Chavignon, Fort Malmaison, Courteson, Cerny, Winterberg, Craonne, Villerberg and fortified works near Berry-au-Bac, as well as Cornicy, Cauroy and Loivre were taken by storm."

At last accounts, the Germans were endeavoring to press back the defenders upon the Vesle river, which runs parallel with the Aisne, and at several points had reached positions dominating the Vesle valley. The offensive is being carried out with the greatest rapidity, for the German high command evidently is well aware of the fact that General Foch's reserves have been reported to be coming up rapidly to reinforce the hard-pressed British and French, who are fighting valiantly and making wave upon wave of the enemy pay dearly in casualties for every foot of ground they obtain.

Line Intact.

Notwithstanding the rapidity of the drive and the large number of enemy pressing it—some unofficial estimates place the number of shock troops alone at 25 divisions, or about 200,000 picked men—the allied front nowhere has been pierced, but under the onslaughts has bent back in perfect fashion, and all the time giving battle. With such precision has the retirement been conducted that both the British and the French troops have been able to carry back with them all of their supplies and guns or to destroy those they were not able to handle.

At present it is impossible geographically to depict the extent of the German gains, but it would seem evident that the deepest salient they have driven is in the region due east of Vailly, about eight miles.

The latest advices from the front show that while the violence of the enemy's effort as yet is unabated, he is only making headway on the center, and that even there the German momentum is giving signs of slackening. The allies are beginning to react with effect on the wings.

ceived hard usage at the hands of the British and French east of Diknebusche lake, where Monday the Germans in an attack had taken ground. Starting immediately after the gain was made the British and French began counter attacks in an endeavor to wipe out the captured salient, and have succeeded in completely nullifying the enemy's maneuver, which had been carried out with extremely heavy losses.

BRAVE ITALIAN BOY AMONG COUNTRY'S STORMING TROOPS

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Headquarters The Italian Army, Army, May 15.—Premier Orlando and General Sni were passing along the front of the famous Arditi, or Italian storm troops, the other day, when the Premier singled out in the ranks a small boy carrying a rifle. The Premier stopped and asked who this boy soldier could be, and General Sni related this story:

During the retreat last October, the twenty-first battalion of Arditi passed westward through the village of Ospitale in the province of Belluno. It was a stirring event for the village, and all the children were in the street to see the soldiers go by, including a pale-faced boy of fifteen, Davide Marcello, a farm helper for his father. At the sight of the marching men the lad simply threw away his farm tools and joined in the wake of the troops, doing odd jobs for them and being received as a little brother.

But Davide had other ideas, he did not intend to be a privileged little brother but wanted to get in the ranks and be a combatant. He took part in several assaults and developed remarkably expert ability in throwing hand grenades. As a specialist he was in the very forefront of these famous fighters.

"I tried to give him a regular status in the ranks as a soldier," said General Sni, "but there has been difficulty in accomplishing it thus far.

"There will be no more difficulty," said the Premier, touched by the story of the boy's courage and ability. "I ask you to retain him in the twenty-first Assault Battalion, as from this moment I adopt the boy as one of my sons." And the long line of seasoned veterans saw the Prime Minister of Italy step forward and put his hand on the shoulder of the pale-faced boy.

"Davide," said the Premier, "you are now as one of my sons. I expect a letter from you every month. Your position in the ranks is secure and I will see to your future. Meanwhile fight for Italy and be brave."

And again the seasoned ranks stood at attention as the Prime Minister of Italy bent over, and in the presence of the whole battalion kissed the boy soldier on the forehead, and then passed along.

FIRST TIME OVER THE TOP VIVIDLY TOLD BY SERGEANT

In Letter Written to His Father, Dr. A. A. Hyer, Sergeant W. B. Hyer Gives Thrilling Story of Rain of Shot and Shell During Raid.

In a letter written to his father, Dr. A. A. Hyer, of this city, Sergeant W. B. Hyer who has previously written to his wife briefly telling of his first trip "over the top," tells a thrilling story of just what it means to go over the top with the Huns pouring machine gun bullets and shells all around them.

Because of the detailed description of the "show" the accompanying letter will be of profound interest:

May 6th.

Dear Dad and All:

Here I am safe alive and without a scratch after having realized the dreams and ambition of every American soldier over here. I've been "over the top." On a certain day early in the morn (I am not allowed to tell when or where) the curtain of artillery fire started. The nearest expression I can find to it is that "hell broke loose" with all its force. Our hour had come. Over the top we filed and took up our formation as near as the shell-torn ground of "No Man's Land" would permit. We reached the first line of the Boche, after what seemed an eternity of time—that is, what was left of the trenches. The objective of the group I was in, was the third line, and we went amidst bursting shell and the rattle of machine guns. The din was terrible one could neither see nor hear for the noise and smoke.

Trees were literally shot and torn in pieces and standing upon the wrong end, trenches were completely demolished. Practically all traces of them were obliterated. Shell holes large enough to set a small house in obstructed our way. Barb-wire laid low and treacherously covered with dirt, caught in and entangled our feet precipitating some of the advances head long into shell holes, they were attempting to evade. Flying "Pics" lent their screams to the whiz of shells. Through all this our group gained their objective accomplished their mission and withdrew with courage and spirit that comes to only those that have gone through experiences of like nature.

We are over here to fight. We have had our baptism. We are now ready to take on our weight of Boche any time. We have tasted of our strength and found it good. So, dad, ends one of the greatest experiences of my life as it was my first. Those to follow will be as nothing. I am the stronger for it, and wouldn't take a million for it. We are now worthy of the name of "Veteran".

The people of Fayette should feel proud of their boys and the future will increase that feeling. So, dad, your son is seeing things that will be told in years to come. I wish you to let Gladys read this letter as the one I wrote here I know wasn't very satisfactory and at that time my thoughts hadn't quite collected themselves. I got your letter of the 3rd of April and am always glad to hear from you. Though you had it directed wrong as that number is false and I am only a Sergt.

I just heard one of the men say that he saw Charlie Johnson, the picture show man of home, going down the street. It must be a mistake for I've not heard that he was over here.

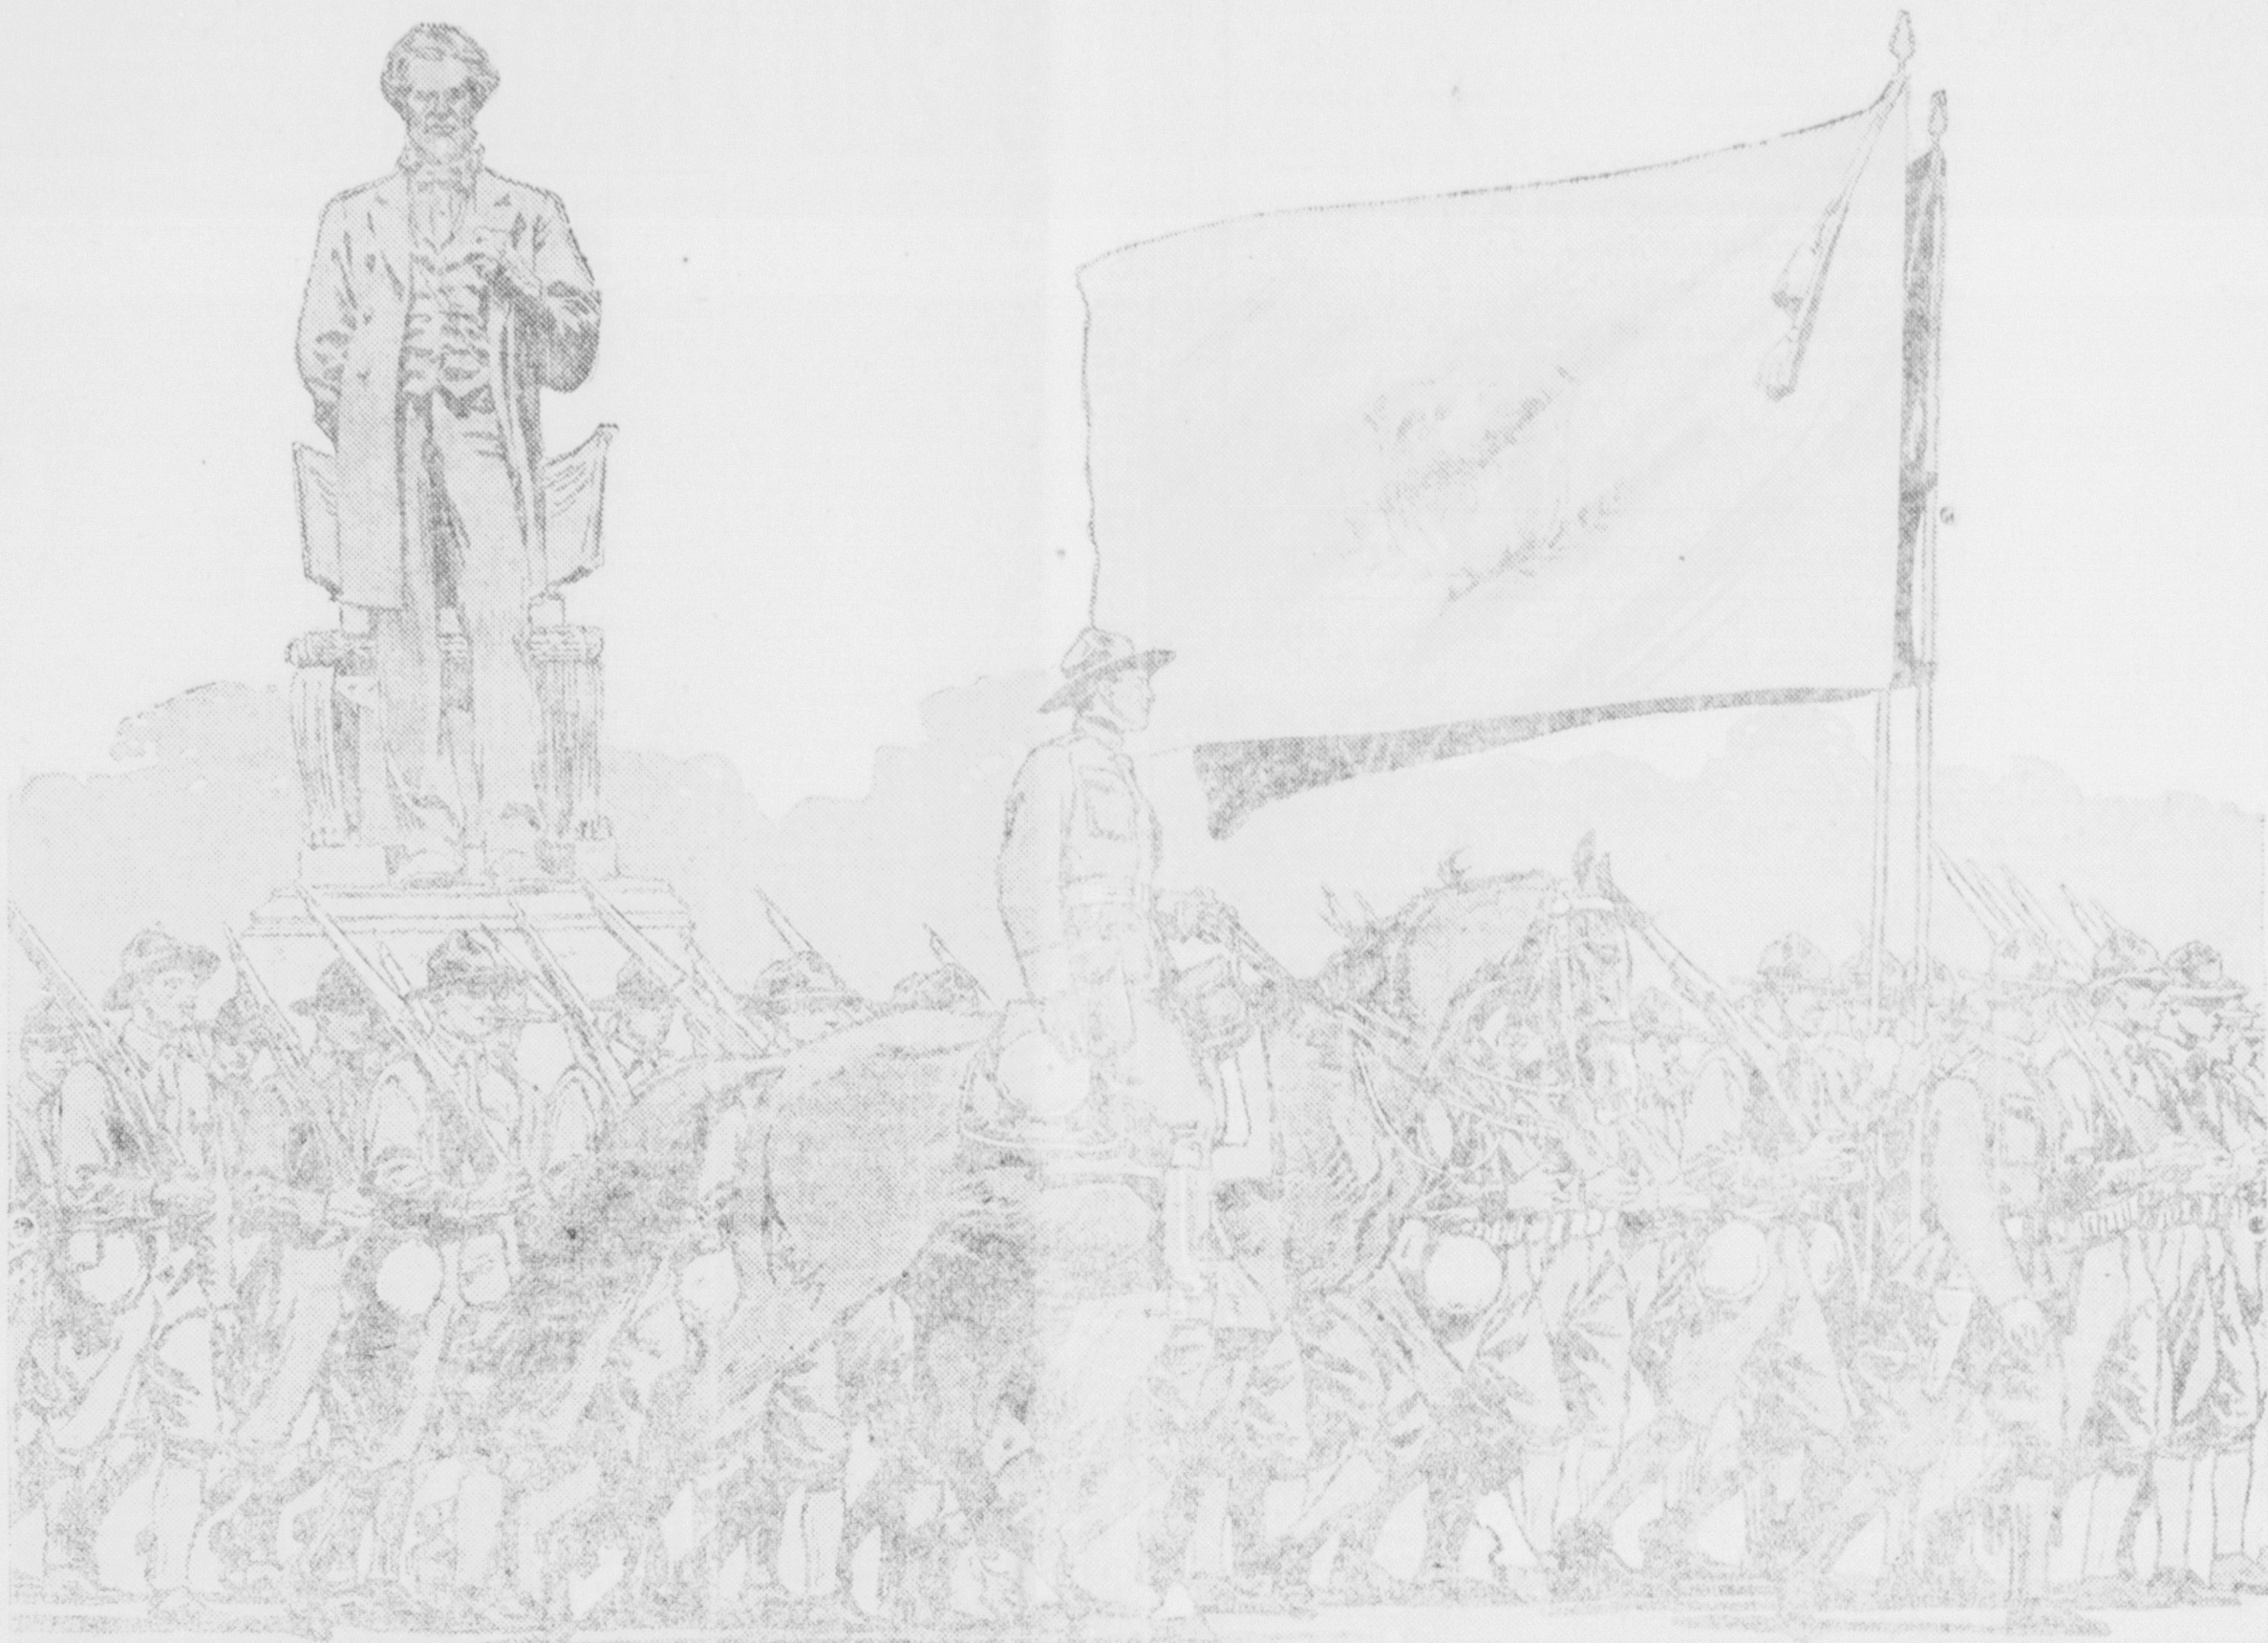

Well dad I've written you quite a long letter. I must write my wife. I am going to see if this will go by the censor. I've not told you the date, number engaged, if any were wounded or killed or when or where the engagement was. Think it ought to go O. K. So will close, dad with love to all.

Your son,
SERGT. W. B. HYER,
Co. M, 156th Inf.

FAIRFIELD SELECTS STOP IN THIS CITY

Four coaches filled with selects from Fairfield County arrived in this city on the regular afternoon train, Tuesday, and were set off on the B. & O. siding between Fayette and Main streets where they remained until the evening train took them in to camp.

The men for the most part were in good spirits, and only one or two intoxicated men were included with the 164. Box suppers had been prepared in Lancaster and shipped on the train with the troops.

Memorial Day, May 30, 1918

At first, Memorial Day was a day of memories; the graves of the brave men who gave their lives in the Civil War were decorated with flowers; a sign that a grateful people had not forgotten the supreme sacrifice these men made.

THEN the day gradually became a popular holiday; games, sports, picnics, were more important than heroic memories; the original idea of the day was in danger of being lost.

Now we have come to a time when Memorial Day can be, and should be, consecrated anew; when we may look back with reverence upon the victorious past, and forward with courage and determination to a victorious future.

Let us make the day a time when we renew our declarations of loyalty to the great cause of which our country has always been the foremost champion—the cause of Human Liberty.

We shall do our daily work, whatever it may be, with a better spirit, if we keep that idea before us

"YANKS" TAKE TOWN AND 200 PRISONERS

Washington, May 29.—General Pershing in his communique made public by the war department, states that American troops in Picardy attacked on a front of one and a quarter miles, capturing the village of Cantigny, took 200 prisoners and inflicted severe losses in killed and wounded on the enemy. American casualties were relatively small, he says.

The statement follows: "In Picardy our troops, attacking on a front of one and one-fourth miles, advanced our lines and captured the village of Cantigny. We took 200 prisoners and inflicted on the enemy severe losses in killed and wounded. Our casualties were relatively small. Hostile counter attacks broke down under our fire. In Lorraine and in the Woëvre, artillery of both sides continued active."

Two lone Americans gave the Germans an opportunity to mention the capture of "prisoners from American regiments" in the German official communication. One of the Americans is missing in Picardy and one in the Lorraine sector. These are the only men reported missing.

The capture of 140 prisoners by the American troops near Montdidier is reported by a British correspondent. "Great satisfaction is expressed among the British troops," says the correspondent, "at the news of a successful attack by the Americans near Montdidier, where they captured over 140 prisoners."

The British military cross has been awarded Captain Thomas Edward Walker of the United States army medical service and 11 lieutenants in that service.

Aged French women in the village in the rear of the American sector in Picardy have asked and received permission to take care of one or more graves of American soldiers. This tribute is all the more impressive because it comes from peasant women, most of whom have been robbed of their husbands and sons by the war and have had a hard time to sustain themselves.

EXPRESS COMPANIES FORM A MERGER

Washington, May 29.—One union express company for the United States was created by agreement between Director General McAdoo and the Adams, American, Wells-Fargo and Southern companies, whose transportation business will be merged under a new private corporation with capital of more than $30,000,000, to be known probably as the federal express company. George C. Taylor, now president of the American, will be the head of the new concern.

After July 1, when the combination becomes effective, shippers will direct shipments "by express" without regard to company, and soon thereafter the individual names of the separate companies will begin to disappear from wagons, stations and cars. The company will be the express carrying agency of the railroads, operating privately, but under contract to turn over 50 per cent of their gross revenues—more than $200,000,000 last year—to the roads for transportation privileges. Three smaller railroad-owned companies, the Western, Great Northern and Northern, may join the combination later.

More than 100,000 employees of the four companies are to be retained under the new corporation, and their wages will be raised in many cases.
